Sad News

It is with great sadness that we announce the death of Roger Hailwood who passed away at home last week. Many of you will know Roger and that for many years he was a great friend and active supporter of the school. He served as a governor and ran the highly successful Imagineering Club to name but a couple of things. The beautiful 'peace window' in our entrance hall was gifted to the school by Roger and will now serve as a reminder of the supportive, committed and kind person he was. He will be greatly missed.

Please see below for samples of the wonderful work shared by children over the past week. Remember that you can contact school via phone or email at any time if you need help or support with any educational matters.

Happy Easter to all of you.

Stay safe.

Dear my future self ★★
I'm seeing happy today.
Since I have been 55 years
I have played on my seesaw I went as fast as a horse. I have also had a good time on my trampoline I jumped as high as moon.
The weather today is cloudy
when I grow up I want to be a teacher or a vet. My favourite place
is Disney land I hope
I get to go many times.
Love from

10 elephants
A long time ago
there lived 10 smelly
elephants. 9 elephants were grey but 1 elephant was bright yellow. One day
the 9 smelly elephants were singing. When the yellow elephant
heard the yellow elephant
tried to talk to the 9 smelly elephants, they
just slowly walked
away from him.
The bright yellow elephant
cried at his ears
because his family
had slowly walked away from him. So
he went into the woods.
Suddenly a girl
appeared with long
hair, her name
is Beauty because she seemed so nice so
the smelly yellow
elephant told her what happened.
Beauty knew what
the yellow elephant
was thinking so Beauty played with the
elephant but because they could play the elephants realised what

Dear Mrs Ridley,

Thank you for your letter. Guess what? I think I solved your riddle... is it the letter M? And yes, you solved my riddle!

To know what you would like to plant, you could get all the seeds, play eeny, meeny, miney, mo, then plant the winner in the best spot and the others in an ok spot? I hope flowers win because I hate vegetables.

We planted marigold seeds in our house and they are getting bigger and bigger every day. I water them with a spray bottle about 5 times a day. I've sent you a photo. When they are big enough, we are going to plant them outside to keep the flies away from our carrots.

Yes, I like the idea of sunflowers for the windows but it is Spring now so we could do little pictures of seeds growing into big flowers.

I have got the Roald Dahl series for Christmas from my Mom and Dad. I have read most of them and I am reading The Witches at the moment. After that, I have two more books, Charlie and the great glass elevator and George's marvellous medicine. The Witches is a little bit scary for me because the little boy was looking through a window and saw thousands of witches turn Bruno into a mouse. My favourite bit about The Witches is when the boy discovered how to recognise a witch by their gloves and wigs! The manager of the hotel, Mr Stringer, will not let the boy train his mice but he finds an empty closet to secretly train them. That is where he discovers the witches! I'm half way through the book.

Love from,
J.J.

The magic girl

Chapter1

Georgina is found

One sunny day in the aisles of Northern Ireland, a Mum with two children named Mia and William were walking along the banks of a mystical, see-through lake that glimmered in the sun's beams. As they were walking they stopped by a tree to have a picnic, play hide and seek and climb trees. Mia was three so she just had a bottle of milk and mashed up food to eat. William wanted to play Tig so he could climb up trees and jump on whoever dared to come beneath. When William came down to eat he stole his sister's packet of crisps and quickly went back up the tree so he couldn't get caught.

"Ok, William your little sister will get all your Easter Eggs if you don't give her crisps back now" said Mum, staring calmly at William in the eyes.

"Ok" William mumbled with a mouthful of crisps.

William climbed down the tree and gave his sister the empty packet of BBQ beef crisps.

"OK William, your little sister is getting all your Easter Eggs", said Mum sternly.

"Nooo, my life is over" William wailed loudly.

"ooh, Mia like Easter eggs" said Mia clapping her sticky, gooey hands.

Just at that moment they heard a happy cry coming from a cave nearby. Mum went to check out the cave and found a small, thin baby nestled up in the soft, warm, loving arms of a sleeping bear. Mum didn't know what to do, so she went round and collected a lot of flowers and sat on a rock to squish them together into a baby shape. It looked so much like the baby she and her husband had lost that she thought she would call the baby Georgina and if it was a boy she would call it George. Once she had finished she went to the bear cave and gently slid the flower baby underneath the arms of the bear as she softly took the real baby away. The bear scratched his arm where the real baby had been, but didn't wake up.

Mum tiptoed back to the picnic area and said quietly

"Shhh. We are going."

She put Mia in her pram, whilst holding the baby tight. Suddenly William said loudly, but calmly

"Who and what is that baby you're holding?"

"I'll tell you when we get back" whispered mum sternly.

"Good thank you. We are just going to the park" replied Georgina smoothly and fiercely.

Brendan grabbed Georgina and Leo collars as tightly as a python's grip, then swung them towards his chest violently and quickly. As he did so he made Georgina and Leo feel extremely dizzy. Brendan walked, over to the deep, dark well with a sly smile on his face.

"You big, ugly monster that is as fat as Sumo wrestler. You can't put us in there. It is way too deep and it has no water at all except one midget of a puddle" Georgina said bravely looking Brendan in the eyes.

Brendan loosened his grip and without mercy he flung them in the well...

Chapter4

The surprise

Georgina and Leo screamed as loud as a cockerel's shriek. Georgina and Leo fell deep, deep, deep into the dark well with spider webs in. All of a sudden, Georgina stopped falling and started shining as light as the sun. Georgina grew feathered wings and had magic, electric and lightening sizzling around her. She had black short hair that looked like it was made out of the night sky.

"Help, help, help. Aaaaaarrggggghhhh! Help!!!" cried Leo helplessly.

Georgina had no time to admire how she looked, so started diving as fast as a peregrine falcon down, down, the deep well until she caught up with Leo. Leo was so near the bottom the only thing she could do was grab his waist. As she did so Leo fainted in fright. When Georgina got to the top of the deep well she saw Brendan the bully about to fire his water guns at her. Before he could do anything at all, Georgina electrocuted him with her eyes. Brendan went flying backwards into the boggy swamp covered in dog poo. Brendan was so frightened and the smell was so bad that he died.

When Georgina was on the ridge of the well she put Leo down and Georgina turned back to normal. When she looked up to her amazement she saw her Dad standing in front of her.

"That was amazing". Dad said. "I never knew you could do that. I used to be able to turn my magic on for days at a time. What I mean is that you inherited your magic from me: you are mine and my wife's daughter. When you were born, somehow you disappeared and we thought you were dead because there was a terrible storm outside. That was the reason your mum tried so hard to save you from the bear". Dad was over the moon to see her and to realise that she really was their lost baby.

Before they knew anything else, Dad and Georgina were hugging each other lovingly. After they had finished hugging they looked round to the boggy swamp to see that Brendan had disappeared. When they looked back they saw Leo trying to stand up. Georgina helped him stand and the three of them walked into the distance, Leo limping as he did.

THE END
